Remote Learning

Dear Parent or Carers,

I would like to thank you all for your understanding yesterday evening when we initially messaged you before then sharing more information via a letter later in the evening. I hope that your children are all ok and am sorry for the inconvenience that this has caused for you and your family.

Covid-19 Symptoms

I really hope that all of your children and the other members of your households remain well in the next 14 days. If anyone does develop symptoms and subsequently tests positive, please contact school to make me aware as soon as possible so that we can support you and plan for when your child can return to school.

Remote Learning 4IC and 6AF

For Monday and Tuesday of next week, children will all need to access their remote learning from the remote learning page of the school website:

<http://www.millrythejunior.co.uk/remote-learning/#1600719670830-3a1a786a-a15b>

Today, Miss Vouden will be adding a 6AF and 4IC section to this page – this is different to the year group sections. Maths, English and foundation learning can be accessed from here on both days. Children need to complete their work into their remote learning books that came home several weeks ago.

From Wednesday, we will be teaching children maths, English and foundation lessons using google classrooms. There are three PowerPoints for children and parents to watch together in advance of Wednesday alongside a parent letter providing more information about this – these are found at the top of the remote learning page. Please pay particular attention to the section about how to photograph work and ‘turn it in.’ Children should mark their maths work using honesty cards before turning it in. Miss Furlong and Mrs Chessell will then be able to monitor the progress your children are making whilst they are at home. All remote learning books need to come back to school with your children when they return on Thursday 26th November so that teachers can review learning more thoroughly.

On Monday, usernames and passwords for google classrooms and study zone will be message to all parents in these classes. They should already be in reading star journals but we will re-send to everyone to make sure that there are not any problems accessing this work.

We have learnt a lot about google classrooms in the last week when we have used it for the first time with 6GR. As with many new initiatives, there is likely to be some more learning for us to do as a school team to ensure that this aspect of remote learning runs smoothly and result in the best outcomes for our children. If there are glitches early on with the technology, please share these with us via mrjsclosure@millrythe-jun.hants.sch.uk and we will do our best to resolve these as soon as possible.

During the period of self-isolation, your child will also receive a phone call from school to see how you are all doing.

Remote Learning for children self-isolating in other classes across MRJS

From Monday, your child/children will need to access their remote learning from the remote learning page of the school website:

<http://www.millrythejunior.co.uk/remote-learning/#1600719670830-3a1a786a-a15b>

At the top of the page, there is a letter titled 'Remote Learning Plan Letter.' Please read this carefully as it sets expectations about the amount of work to be completed each day.

Having read the letter, please scroll down to find your child's year group page. Here you will be able to use the tabs to access the different aspects of their learning. Please make sure children complete the work for the correct time periods, recording everything in their remote learning books. All remote learning books need to come back to school with your children when they return on Thursday 26th November so that teachers can review learning more thoroughly.

During the period of self-isolation, your child will also receive a phone call from school to see how you are all doing.

Thank you for your continuing support at this time.
